DETAILED ACTION

Specification

A substitute specification including the claims is required pursuant to 37 CFR 1.125(a) because the specification appears to be a direct translation from the foreign application. The language is broad, vague and awkward. For example, many sentences are the length of a paragraph (note the first few pages of the Summary of the Invention, paragraphs 0046, 0054, 0066, 0086). Many sentences are awkward. For example, 2nd sentence in paragraph 0005, paragraph 0008, paragraph 0010, paragraph 0012, paragraph 0014. This not meant to be an exhaustive list, but rather examples of the types of problems encountered with respect to the specification.

A substitute specification must not contain new matter. The substitute specification must be submitted with markings showing all the changes relative to the immediate prior version of the specification of record. The text of any added subject matter must be shown by underlining the added text. The text of any deleted matter must be shown by strike-through except that double brackets placed before and after the deleted characters may be used to show deletion of five or fewer consecutive characters. The text of any deleted subject matter must be shown by being placed within double brackets if strike-through cannot be easily perceived. An accompanying clean version (without markings) and a statement that the substitute specification contains no new matter must also be supplied. Numbering the paragraphs of the specification of record is not considered a change that must be shown.

Drawings

The drawings are objected to under 37 CFR 1.83(a). The drawings must show every feature of the invention specified in the claims. Therefore, the telephone connection unit, another party's terminal, an outside source, detection unit and the disconnection notification unit must be shown or the feature(s) canceled from the claim(s). No new matter should be entered. Again, this is not meant to be an exhaustive list, but merely examples of the problems with the drawings.

Corrected drawing sheets in compliance with 37 CFR 1.121(d) are required in reply to the Office action to avoid abandonment of the application. Any amended replacement drawing sheet should include all of the figures appearing on the immediate prior version of the sheet, even if only one figure is being amended. The figure or figure number of an amended drawing should not be labeled as "amended." If a drawing figure is to be canceled, the appropriate figure must be removed from the replacement sheet, and where necessary, the remaining figures must be renumbered and appropriate changes made to the brief description of the several views of the drawings for consistency. Additional replacement sheets may be necessary to show the renumbering of the remaining figures. Each drawing sheet submitted after the filing date of an application must be labeled in the top margin as either "Replacement Sheet" or "New Sheet" pursuant to 37 CFR 1.121(d). If the changes are not accepted by the examiner, the applicant will be notified and informed of any required corrective action in the next Office action. The objection to the drawings will not be held in abeyance.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 112

The following is a quotation of the first paragraph of 35 U.S.C. 112:

The specification shall contain a written description of the invention, and of the manner and process of making and using it, in such full, clear, concise, and exact terms as to enable any person skilled in the art to which it pertains, or with which it is most nearly connected, to make and use the same and shall set forth the best mode contemplated by the inventor of carrying out his invention.

Claims 1 - 34 rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, first paragraph, as failing to comply with the written description requirement. The claim(s) contains subject matter which was not described in the specification in such a way as to reasonably convey to one skilled in the relevant art that the inventor(s), at the time the application was filed, had possession of the claimed invention.

For example, an outside source, detection unit and the disconnection notification unit among others are not discussed in the specification, but only show up in the claims. This is not meant to be an exhaustive list, but merely some examples of the types of problems found. There are more problems such as those discussed above. Applicant should ensure that all claimed elements are described in the specification. In addition, please be consistent in using terminology.

The following is a quotation of the second paragraph of 35 U.S.C. 112:

The specification shall conclude with one or more claims particularly pointing out and distinctly claiming the subject matter which the applicant regards as his invention.

Claims 1 -34 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, second paragraph, as being indefinite for failing to particularly point out and distinctly claim the subject matter which applicant regards as the invention.

Specifically, there many elements or limitations claimed, as shown above, that are not described in the specification, leaving the examiner to guess at applicant's intent.

The examiner would like to stress that the problems pointed out above are only examples and that applicant ensure that the Substitute Specification is clear, unambiguous and does not contain any 112 problems. In addition, the drawings should contain all claimed subject matter and the terminology should be consistent with the claims and specification. Additionally, please ensure that that there are no 112 problems with the claims. If the examiner finds 112 problems in applicant's response or that the drawings are lacking, applicant can expect a Final Office action will result. However, if no problems are found then applicant can expect a Non-Final Office action on the merits in the next Office Action.
